

As a person who flies at least once a month, I request you do not approve cellular use aboard airborne aircraft, unless there is an emergency as declared by the flight crew.

Passengers' thoughtless use of cell phones in the terminal is annoying enough. To have that babbling going in an enclosed plane cabin would make flying a very unpleasant experience. Thanks.